Our joint programmes allow you to study law alongside another academic discipline. Over four years of study you will take a range of courses from both the Law School and the School of Literatures, Languages and Cultures.

The joint LLB Law and Spanish aims to promote advanced knowledge and understanding of the theory, concepts and rules of law. It also gives you the opportunity to gain a professional standard of Spanish.

Year 1:
You will be introduced to general legal principles and legal techniques and will study core courses including Scottish Legal System, Law in Context, Contract Law, Criminal Law, Property Law and European Union Law. Students on the Graduate LLB will complete their studies at the end of second year.

Year 2:
As year 1.

Year 3:
You will have the opportunity to specialise in three law subjects, chosen from a wide range of courses, including Commercial Law, International Law, Property Law, Family Law and Criminology. All students will also take a legal skills module: Advanced Legal Methods.

If you are studying law with a language you will spend your third year abroad. Third year is the final stage of the LLB (Ordinary) degree.

Year 4:
You choose up to four further courses to expand your specialist knowledge, and write a dissertation. This will help you develop your legal research and writing skills. This is the final year of the LLB (Hons) degree.

If you are planning to enter the Scottish legal profession you will need to complete the Diploma in Professional Legal Practice after you graduate. You can apply for the Diploma during the final year of the LLB programme.
