Occupational Therapy

Glasgow Caledonian University

Content

Occupational Therapists work with a variety of people, across a range of settings including hospitals, community teams and schools. They are skilled professionals who support people of all ages in their daily activities (or "occupations") to gain independence and achieve meaningful goals.

The learning and teaching methods at Glasgow Caledonian ensure that you'll benefit from a course that is vocationally relevant and academically challenging. Our approach is student-centred, practical, participative, and relevant to the needs of employers. The course involves invaluable practice placement opportunities across a range of settings, where you'll have the opportunity to learn alongside skilled professionals.

Occupational Therapists work as part of a team, and on this course there are several opportunities to learn alongside students from a range of health and social care professions.
