Content

The UWS Filmmaking and Screen Writing course offers a unique balance between film theory, filmmaking and script writing, which will enable you to develop industry-accredited skills while pursuing your passion for cinema.

You will learn how to write scripts, make films and study cinema as art, culture and commerce.

The course is designed to produce graduates with specific knowledge and skills in filmmaking, cinematic storytelling, and film culture.

The course will also develop your transferable skills of content production, information processing and professional communication.

The course has an explicitly international curriculum concerned with a globalised industry, which is explored in local, regional and national contexts throughout the four years of study.
