Content

This programmes aims to help young people and adults undertaking 'bite-sized' learning activities to develop personal and practical skills, self-awareness and confidence in expressing their views and opinions. It is designed for individuals who want to develop vocational and life skills and gain credit and qualifications to support their learning experience.

Depending on individual requirements, the course allows students to attend their chosen sessions on a part-time basis consisting of two sessions per week. The sessions can be taken as two half days or combined to make one full day.
