

Criminology and Law

Open University in Scotland

Content

If you're fascinated by the legal system and why people engage in criminal behaviour, and would like to develop skills and knowledge relevant to a range of careers, this diploma is for you. You'll explore issues such as antisocial behaviour, surveillance, security, social justice, social welfare and environmental degradation. In this diploma, you'll also take a critical and analytical view of the role and functions of the legal system, and examine its relationship with criminal behaviour.

Start Date

October, February

Qualification

DipHE

Study Method

Distance and Flexible learning

Course Length

Flexible

Faculty

General

Department

Law

Entry Requirements

There are no formal qualifications required to study this degree. Computer and internet access required.

SCQF Level

8

Address

Drumsheugh Gardens
Edinburgh
EH3 7QJ

Website

www.open.ac.uk/scotland/