

International Hospitality and Service Management (3rd year entry)

Edinburgh Napier University

Venues

Craiglockhart Campus

Content

This advanced entry course is designed to meet this growing demand for the thriving tourism industry by producing students who are capable of managing the design, delivery, management and development of food, beverage and accommodation services, or other forms of related provision, in the challenging global business environment.

Designed for students who wish to build on their previous learning, you can enter directly into Year 3 or 4 depending on your prior qualifications. You may transfer in from another degree course, even if it's from another university, or you may have successfully completed an HND in a related area at college.

You'll develop a detailed knowledge and understanding of the practices and principles appropriate to a career in the hospitality and service industry. You'll develop your practical, critical and analytical abilities enabling you to compete effectively for employment.
