Robert Gordon University

Content

This MA programme provides a series of connected learning experiences, which are delivered through four modules. The Jewellery pathway within the Programme enables you to develop the skills, critical understanding and specialist knowledge required to follow a rewarding career as an independent Jewellery designer, develop your own business or to work within a related creative sector.

This pathway provides a tailored learning environment that encourages and supports your creative development, independence in creativity, imagination and ideas. This pathway will support your development of new interdisciplinary practices, conceptual skills and a broader understanding of the debates informing Art & Design practices. The course is suitable if you have an undergraduate honours degree in Design: Jewellery, 3D Design, Product Design or related disciplines, or if you want to develop your career and specialist academic knowledge in this discipline based on prior professional experience.

You can exit after Stage 1 with PgCert Jewellery.

You can exit after Stage 2 with PgDip Jewellery.
