Religion, Philosophy and Ethics

Open University in Scotland

Content

This qualification explores human systems of thought and practice, both ‘secular’ and ‘religious’, in ways which allow you to engage with wide-ranging and often controversial issues and challenges affecting different cultures and societies across Africa, the Americas, Asia and Europe. You’ll investigate current questions and themes from both historical and contemporary perspectives. This includes the ethics of war, political justice, race and colonialism, health and ageing, religious nationalisms, the ‘sanctity of life’ and human relationships with the environment. In engaging with religious studies and philosophy, you’ll develop critical skills and expertise across a range of key approaches and methodologies.
