Content

The HNC Technical Theatre course at New College Lanarkshire will provide you with hands-on experience in the disciplines of technical theatre through practical and production based teaching. Throughout the course, you will have the opportunity to work in a variety of technical roles across our three college theatre spaces as well as external professional performance venues.

While working on the many college productions you will have the opportunity to gain and improve your skills across multiple technical disciplines in a variety of performance spaces and venues, including lighting: design, rigging, focussing and operation, sound set up, design and operation, set design construction and stage management roles.
