

Heritage and Exhibition Design

Edinburgh Napier University

Venues

Merchiston Campus

Content

The MFA Heritage and Exhibition Design will develop your understanding of core aspects of heritage, exhibition, and museum design, as well as site-specific interpretive installations in Scotland's vibrant and extensive heritage sector.

Part of the MA/MFA Design Suite, the course benefits from bringing together designers from a range of disciplines into core modules, as well as modules specific to your chosen pathway including 'Interpretation & Design' and 'Design for Heritage & Culture'.

All students complete the Live Project module and you'll study 'Thinking: Research for Creative Practice', which will help you to determine your Dissertation (MA and MFA) and Major Project (MFA) topics.

Start Date

September

Qualification

Postgraduate Master's

Study Method

Part time (day)

Award Title

MFA

Course Length

4 years

Department

Design and Photography

Entry Requirements

Bachelor (Honours) Degree at 2:2 or above in an art and design or related discipline (architecture, creative computing and engineering design).

We may also consider lesser qualifications if you have sufficient professional work experience within the industry.

All candidates are interviewed with a portfolio of creative work or technical/business projects. Applicants from overseas can be interviewed by teleconference with an online portfolio.

SCQF Level

11

Combination Courses

«htmlCombinationCourse»

«htmlCombinationUCASCode»

Address

«Address»

Website

www.napier.ac.uk