Content

The joint honours degree in History and Politics offers you the chance to study two distinct but complementary subjects, based in the Highlands and Islands of Scotland, yet with an international approach that will prepare you for life and employment beyond university.

As you progress through the course, you will choose from a combination of modules, equally balanced between history and politics. You will study the history and politics of Scotland, Britain, Europe, North Atlantic and North America.

You will learn through a combination of face-to-face and VC classes at your college and individual online study via the UHI virtual learning environment (VLE,) with support from your tutors and studies adviser.

Special features:

History modules are taught by experts from the UHI Centre for History; This joint honours degree gives you a broad understanding and skills base in global issues in history and politics; You can study full time or part time to suit your personal circumstances; You can study individual modules for personal or professional development.
