

Community Music: An Introduction

New College Lanarkshire

Venues

Cumbernauld Campus

Content

Our Community Music: An Introduction course will offer you the opportunity to learn and experience the benefits of introducing Music and Sound Production techniques into different settings within a range of community music contexts. Through creative songwriting, improvisation and group performance, this course will teach you the leadership and musicianship skills required to facilitate sessions within a community music setting. In addition to this, the course will also give you an awareness of how various project approaches can be used as a tool for building confidence, improving mental health and empowering the student.
