Content

With the vast majority of degree programmes now requiring you to study either Art or Design, there are no such barriers within this interdisciplinary programme. In year one you will have the opportunity to work across a broad range of specialisms. You will carry out a variety of art and design based projects, deciding on a broad specialism by Easter, supported by feedback and advice from staff. Your practical project work will support a growing critical and contextual understanding of art and design theory.
