University of Glasgow

Venues

Dumfries Campus

Content

If you are an aspiring teacher, this programme will provide you with the knowledge, skills and values you need to become the committed professional necessary for today's schools.

This PGDE programme provides support for, and emphasis on, the initial teacher education of those who intend to teach in Catholic schools through the Catholic Teacher Certificate route. The design of this pathway necessarily reflects the sector requirements for teaching Religious Education in the Catholic school and prospective applicants should consider this before applying.

As well as offering courses in educational and curricular issues, the programme also highlights the importance of practitioner enquiry. This systematic reflection on teaching in the classroom gives the programme its distinctive Masters character.

The programme consists of 18 weeks of study in the University and 18 weeks of school experience in our partner schools.
