Content

The National Qualification in Music (Vocalist) is for singers eager to explore pop, rock, and indie styles in a professional environment. It welcomes school leavers, adult returners, and those already working in the music industry who want to develop technique and stagecraft.

Across this one-year, full-time course, you'll rehearse, record, and perform live, building your vocal strength, control, and confidence. You'll also learn digital recording, harmony, and collaborative performance skills. You will also work with Music Business and Music Performance students to develop and showcase original work.

It's an inspiring route into further study at HND level or into performance and studio work.
