Content

Are you a creative practitioner, looking to build a solid technical and theoretical foundation in the field of contemporary photography? Maybe you're looking to expand your academic experience? Do both with this Photography HNC.

Explore a range of different genres such as portraiture, environment, still life, and documentary practice, whilst generating an extended portfolio. Base yourself mainly in your home region, with three short practical residentials held separately at the Broadford and Alness campuses.

Take advantage of specialist printing facilities and participate in the portfolio presentation module, with opportunities to present your work to the public. You will need access to photographic equipment and computer facilities with editing software, plus sufficient studio space for practical work.
