City Campus

Content

Supply chain management is regional, national, and global - it is everywhere. Supply Chain consists of many functions, from procurement, manufacturing, warehousing, and distribution. Logistics alone, is a key part of the UK economy, contributing over £127 billion and employing 1.7 million people.

Supply Chains are constantly evolving with new technology and innovation, modern production lines, strategising product movement from source to the final customer.

Supply chains are not just about moving boxes, they are moving information, data, and finance. Supply Chains are predicting the future with demand planning, strengthening relationships with their suppliers all over the world, and managing inventory to meet demand.
