Content

The NQ Level 4 Digital Design and Games Development is an exciting new course, which introduces you to a range of practical skills, essential to working effectively within the digital design and games industry today. The course provides you with the opportunity to identify and explore your creative passions and interests. In doing so, you will learn the fundamentals of computer hardware, computer software, games design and development, animation, video, photography and the creation of web content.

The course can act as a bridge between Next Steps and the NQ Applied Computing course or NQ Art and Design. The course also offers the potential for progression onto HNC Visual Communication and HNC Computing.
