Content

Year 1:

We introduce you to key sociological ideas, by studying the relationship between individuals and groups through examining the examples of social change, drug use, violence and gender. You'll select from a wide range of optional courses, depending on the degree programme you choose.

Year 2:

You study Identity and its impact on today's world; examine how social scientists use theory and evidence, and take three optional courses, depending on your degree programme.

Year 3:

You will learn research skills, do a group research project, and study social theory. Optional courses cover environment and risk, globalization, nationalism, the internet, and youth culture.

Year 4:

In your final year you will take more optional courses and complete an individual research project supported by a member of teaching staff with opportunities to present your research findings to your peers.
