Central Campus

Content

Year 1:

You will take Introduction to Politics & International Relations.

You will also take Fundamentals, a hands-on key skills course covering topics such as critical reading, essay writing and understanding the media.

All students take an introductory political theory course and International Relations students take an international law course. Depending on your programme, you will also take up to four optional courses of your choice.

Year 2:

You will study International Cooperation in Europe and Beyond, which examines how states cooperate in international organisations such as the European Union, the World Trade Organisation and the United Nations.

This year will also include courses in comparative politics and data analysis along with two further optional courses.

In Years 3 and 4 the Politics and International Relations programmes separate. Find study information for Years 3 and 4 on your chosen programme page.
