Content

If you are an aspiring teacher, this programme will provide you with the knowledge, skills and values you need to become the committed professional necessary for today's schools.

The programme consists of 18 weeks of study in the University and 18 weeks of school experience in our partner schools

As well as offering courses in educational and curricular issues, the programme also highlights the importance of practitioner enquiry. This systematic reflection on teaching in the classroom gives the programme its distinctive Masters character.

The programme will prepare you to meet the demands of the profession through the following areas of study:

Understanding learning and teaching; Curriculum, pedagogies and practice in the secondary; Professional enquiry; and school placements.

You also have the option to study for the Catholic Teacher's Certificate in Religious Education.
