Content

This course has a hugely successful history of gaining student employment.

It gives you access to industry standard equipment and software in studio, sound reinforcement and gaming audio, including Ableton and Native Instruments.

We're also one of only a few colleges to offer the internationally recognised gaming audio certification via Avid PT 130.

Some students will have the opportunity to undertake Certified Pro Tools courses. (Please ask us for more information on this).

Subjects include: sound production theory and practice; digital audio theory; digital audio workstation; advanced studio techniques; sound reinforcement technologies; management and legal issues in the audio and sound production industries.
