

Glasgow Kelvin College

Glasgow Kelvin College has four main campuses located in the centrally and in the north and east of Glasgow – Springburn, Easterhouse, East End and West End. There are also 40 affiliated learning centres located in the city centre and north and east Glasgow.

The college was formed from the merger of John Wheatley, North Glasgow and Stow Colleges in November 2013.

Courses and subjects

A wide range of qualifications are available, including National Certificate (NC), National Qualification (NQ), Scottish Vocational Qualifications (SVQ), Higher National Certificate (HNC), Higher National Diploma (HND) and professional qualifications. The college has links with Glasgow Caledonian, Strathclyde and West of Scotland Universities, as well as the Open University.

Courses are taught through the following faculties; Business and Creative Industries, Business and Industry (Commercial), Community and Flexible Learning, Engineering, Construction and Science and Health, Care and Learning Development.

Facilities and services

'Elegance Beauty' at the Easterhouse Campus has a nail bar, beauty room, make-up studio and hair salon, for the advanced stages of beauty students' training, and is open to the public.

The college also has training restaurants for hospitality students; Park Restaurant at Easterhouse and Rowan Restaurant at the East End campuses. They are also open to the public one day per week.

Glasgow Kelvin College recently launched Cycle Hub for students, staff and community, with the purpose of encouraging healthy sustainable lifestyles, and to play a part in making Glasgow a sustainable bike-friendly city.

Specialisms

Glasgow Kelvin College is part of a successful partnership with Creative Skillset Scotland delivering the BBC Creative Industries Modern Apprenticeship in Creative and Digital Media Skills, providing excellent opportunities for talented students to train in the media industry.
