Fife College

Fife College is in the east of Scotland and has five main campuses in Dunfermline, Kirkcaldy, Glenrothes, Levenmouth, and Rosyth. The college is home to around 20,000 students and 900 staff.

Courses and subjects

The college offers over 400 courses across 40 different subject areas at a range of various levels, including NC, HNC, HND, SVQ and degrees. There are over 550 progression routes to a degree through the college's partnerships with universities throughout the country.

Courses are offered under the following subject areas: Accounting, Legal and Police Studies; Art, Design and Jewellery; Built Environment; Business, Enterprise, Administration and IT; Childcare and Early Education; Community and Supported Learning; Computing and Digital Technologies; Construction and Building Services; Culinary Arts and Hospitality; Data Science; Engineering and Energy; ESOL; Hair, Beauty and Make-Up; Healthcare, Wellbeing and Counselling; Media and Sound Productions; Performing Arts; Photography; Science and Maths; Social Sciences; Sport and Fitness; and, Tourism and Travel.

Facilities and services

The newly built state-of-the-art Dunfermline City Campus includes industry-standard workshops for engineering and construction, a university hub, a purpose-built learning café, a sports hall, and an events and conference centre. New outdoor facilities include outdoor spaces for childcare courses, external dining areas for hospitality students, and covered outdoor workshop areas for built environment courses.

The Glenrothes campus is home to a new Media Production Hub with professionally equipped studios and edit suites for sound, radio and screen production. The Kirkcaldy campus has state-of-the-art kitchens and a magnificent student-run restaurant, ‘The Academy’. Levenmouth has hair and beauty salons, and care facilities to train the next generation of ‘front-line heroes’, while the Rosyth campus is home to most of the college’s engineering and renewable energy facilities.

There are libraries, student support and guidance teams, student associations, cafés, bistros and restaurants, available across all campuses. The college also has an award-winning Students’ Association.

Specialisms

The college has several specialisms, but places focus on the key employment sectors in the region, including construction, engineering, and digital technologies.

The Andrew Carnegie Business School offers professional qualifications and training courses in business, management, and leadership.
